Bank Awards New Contract Order to RIWI for $543,000

Toronto, ON – RIWI Corp. (CSE: RIW) (OTC: RWCRF) (the "Company" or "RIWI"), a global trend-tracking and prediction technology firm, is pleased to announce that BofA Securities has awarded a new contract order to RIWI for US$543,000 under its three-year long-term agreement (the "Agreement"). BofA Securities represents the Bank of America's institutional broker-dealer businesses, including Global Markets, Investment Banking, and Capital Markets.

RIWI has won over US$1.6 million in business with BofA Securities since the Agreement was signed in August 2017.

"This new contract order reflects RIWI's commitment to client delivery excellence for analysts in diverse sectors and with investment interests across the world," said Neil Seeman, RIWI's Chief Executive Officer. RIWI's offerings for the finance sector include: predictions about major geopolitical events that significantly impact equities and markets; and real-time analytics about fast-changing sentiment and technology trends.

RIWI responds to ongoing data needs for the bank's global teams and therefore RIWI expects to win additional contracts under the Agreement in the future. RIWI's current projects for BofA Securities include tracking: (a) proprietary consumer confidence indicators; (b) smartphone upgrade intent for Apple iPhones and Samsung Galaxy phones; and (c) proprietary consumer demand signals for electric vehicles.
